

5. COMPUTERS IN THE COMMUNITY PROJECT

This report informed the Committee of the development of the “Computers in the Community Project”. The primary focus of the project was to bridge the widening gap between those who can access information and communications technology and those finding themselves excluded by educational, social or economic circumstances.

The Committee thanked Liz Ellington and John Truesdale for their efforts in ensuring the project’s success.