Comment

Several significant initiatives have been established with the employment of the new Community Worker. Anticipated and agreed outcomes for the community worker are currently being achieved. Through the Community Worker, the Bishopdale Community Trust responds to needs by working alongside the community in developing programmes, courses or any other action determined by the community.

Comment

The transition period for the new Youth Worker has gone smoothly and the outcomes have been achieved just as effectively. The workers tasks have included involvement with recreational and mentoring activities in association with local schools and liaising with other local community organisations. The Youth Worker has been active at Jellie Park delivering a series of BMX and skate events.

Comment

Effective progress is being made in the area the Community Worker is working in. Her developing profile in the community is a valuable part of this progress. The Trust is about to complete a community needs analysis that will identify priority needs and target responses. This will provide further future direction for the Trust.

Comment

Effective progress is being made in the area the Youth Worker is working in. The two major programmes the Youth Worker is involved in: the Peer Support Programme at Breens Intermediate School and the Drop In Centre which runs on a Friday night at St Margarets continue to be successful and attracts a large number of young people.

CONCLUSION

The Community and Youth Workers serving the Fendalton/Waimairi community continue to meet expected outcomes and are a valuable asset to the community. All are meeting the requirements of the Christchurch City Council Social Well-Being policy outcomes and assist in meeting needs of the community, including assisting children, youth, older persons, people with disabilities, Maori and families as a whole.
