Education, accessibility, of reading material, video's and CD's and other services provided by the library are essential for people's health, knowledge and welfare.

The mobile library may be having the number of items, being reduced, but with today's economy many people may look towards using and issuing library books from your service, to avoid using public or their own transport.

Community libraries are essential for all concerned for the whole community to use as an organizing resource, meeting place, which is in a clean and safe environment.

My daughter and I used the library services regularly before she attended school. We developed friendships through the library which have continued today. We particularly enjoyed using the storytime service's around the different libraries and often went by bus or walked to our local library.

G.L.P

My father lives near the Ferndalton service centre and is elderly and until recently used the services fortnightly. He enjoyed meeting the pleasant and welcoming staff there.

Libraries mean different things for different people, young and ^{GUP} elderly and for those with mental and physical disabilities.

We need more people to be educated and informed to access materials that the society provides.
