I live in the inner city. I regularly bike into town. I have discovered that the one way streets Madras & Babadoes are safer and give plenty of comfort room between parked cars & travelling vehicles where the new gutters have been replaced. There are 2 blocks on Madras street between Kilmore & Salibury st that still have the old dish channels & about 3 blocks on babadoes street. As a result of this I feel safer riding on the footpath for these sections with old dish channels. One of the benefits of riding the one way system is that you don,t encounter on coming right hand turning vehicles. These streets are a popular in and out of town route for cyclists. Can this be remedied sooner rather that later. With petrol prices increasing more people are choosing to bike. Lets make it easier and safer for them. Regards Nicki
